What is it?

Survey scams are malicious schemes in which scammers impersonate legitimate survey companies and request personal information in exchange for rewards. These fake surveys are designed to steal personal information. Your safety is important, so always verify the legitimacy of survey requests before sharing any details.

Warning Signs

- A survey is more likely to be a scam if it promises extremely high rewards for little effort.
- Legit surveys don't usually require sensitive data like Social Security numbers or financial information.
- Be cautious of survey requests in emails, especially if they contain suspicious links.
- Legitimate surveys have privacy policies defining what your data will be used for.
- Scam emails typically contain spelling and grammatical errors.
